

VERMONT NEWS.

Vermonters in Buffalo.

The tenth annual banquet of the Buffalo Society of Vermonters was held at Buffalo, N. Y., Friday evening, about 100 of the prominent members being present. At the banquet of social conversation President Dr. H. D. Ingraham, of the Vermont, led the way to the banquet hall with the special guest of the evening, Hon. Charles H. Darling, of Bennington, assistant secretary of the navy. Prayer was offered by the Rev. O. C. Poland, formerly of Montpelier. After a repast, which included Vermont turkey and Vermont maple syrup, President Ingraham called upon Madame Brazzi (Mrs. E. R. Pratt of Brattleboro), to sing a solo. Doctor Ingraham then sketched the services rendered by Vermonters in the various activities of public life, and especially in their connection with various times and ways with the navy. This led to a natural introduction of the speaker of the evening, Mr. Darling took as his theme, "The Life of Commodore Thomas MacDonough." Prof. George E. Howes of the University of Vermont, Burlington, who was found to be present, was called upon for an impromptu speech. Among the prominent Vermonters present were Dr. H. D. Ingraham, president, Thetford, Thomas H. Noonan, president of Addison, Samuel B. Botsford, secretary of Vergennes, Walter Johnson, treasurer of Bradford, Charles S. Wiles, of New Haven, George D. Lincoln of Weston, Alphonse Day of Brattleboro, Walter D. Green, of the U. V. M., '88, E. D. Strickland, of the U. V. M., '94 and the following members of the executive committee: Dr. Dewitt C. Green, chairman, of Charlotte, Charles C. Farnham, U. V. M., '86, of Brattleboro, George H. Hill, U. V. M., '76, of Isle La Motte, and Charles W. Stone of Johnson.

Vermonters in Minneapolis.

The Vermont association of Minneapolis has had its 14th annual gathering and banquet at Hotel Nicolet on the evening of Feb. 29, with an attendance of 150. This is the only one of several State associations whose members have retained their state loyalty sufficiently to make the organization a success. The newly elected officers of the association are: Healy C. Akely of Stowe, president; G. W. Batchelder, first vice-president; M. D. Grover, second vice-president; the Hon. Elmer E. Adams of Morrisville, third vice-president; Charles M. Drew of St. Johnsbury, secretary and treasurer.

Among the prominent ex-Vermonters present were Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Boutell of Bakersfield, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Lane (U. V. M.) of Burlington, Senator F. G. McMillan of Danville, Mrs. S. G. Bishop of Burlington, Chas. G. Church (U. V. M.) of Jericho, Miss Elizabeth Hood (U. V. M.) of Winoski, ex-Lieut. Gov. Syden A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McMahon of Burlington, Judge M. Crosby of Wilmington, Judge J. B. Gilfillan of Barre, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Russell (U. V. M.) of Burlington, Judge Belden of St. Johnsbury, Rome G. Brown of Montpelier, F. S. McClellan of Burlington, David C. Warden of Waterbury, E. Byrnes of Bellows Falls, Dr. and Mrs. I. D. Alger of Williston, Dr. F. E. Towers (U. V. M.) of Richmond.

After the banquet Judge W. K. Gray of Highgate, the retiring president, extended his greeting to the incoming president. The latter has just presented a beautiful library to his native town of Stowe. Among others the president called on the only actual Vermont present, Prof. George E. Howes of the University of Vermont, who gave the Vermonters the greetings of the state and of the university and declared that the same judicial spirit prevailed in Vermont today that caused so many ex-Vermonters to sit on the benches in other states.

During a severe thunder storm at Bennington, Wednesday, lightning struck the power house of the electric railroad near Walloomsac and damaged the building considerably, burning out the generator. The high water carried away a bridge near Walloomsac and covered the tracks with water for the distance of half a mile or more, which has frozen solid.

The worst wind storm for years made things lively at Swanton, Wednesday night. The tin roof on one of the houses which had been damaged a few days before was destroyed and pieces of tin scattered in every direction. Some damage was also done to the C. E. Allen block. People in the Swanton library were frightened when the skylights were broken. A doctor was called to attend a patient and had hardly left his sleigh when the wind struck it and almost turned it over on the horse.

Ralph Tillotson of Barre, aged 15 years, was found dead in bed at his home Friday morning, by his father, F. K. Tillotson, when he went to awaken him. It is thought the cause was heart failure.

A proposition has been made by the three sons of the late Ethan M. and Eliza B. Wright, of Orwell, to erect on land owned by that town, a suitable building for a public library. The donors will guarantee to keep the same in repair, also heat and light the building, pay the librarian and appropriate for books the sum of $100 each year. This building is to be given as a memorial to their parents, who were prominently identified with the interests of the town.

Norman Howe of Randolph, who has been visiting his nephew, Dwight, at Northfield, dropped dead Wednesday night. He was apparently in good health and had just returned from a walk down town. He went to sit down in a chair but before he reached it he fell and died instantly. He was 75 years of age and lived with an adopted daughter, Mrs. Wyman, in Randolph.

There are found to be 300 government liquor licenses in the state of Vermont, the smallest number for years. Under the last year of prohibition there were 574, showing a reduction of 274, almost one-half. The claim had been made in December that there were 775 government licenses in the state, but this is proved to be untrue. The secretary of state issued 250 licenses under the new law. Hardwick is credited with 12 government licenses and St. Johnsbury has several.

Charles R. Farley, a well known civil engineer, attached to the office of the United States department of the interior, Captain Lamoreux, died at his home at Burlington, Friday, of malarial fever, after a two month's illness. He was 34 years old and had been employed in the government service for 17 years. He supervised the construction of 100 buildings in all parts of the United States for the government.

Collins J. Wooster was convicted in Montpelier city court, March 1, of furnishing liquor and sentenced to nine months in the house of correction at Rutland. Wooster tried to prove an alibi, saying he was in Barre when the man, who was arrested for drunkenness, obtained the liquor.

Early Friday morning fire broke out in a wooden block on Church street, Bennington, which was occupied as an oriental store. The total amount of stock carried was $18,000; total insurance, $16,000. The loss is estimated at from $8,000 to $9,000.

Mrs. Freeborn Cutler, widow of Timothy Cutler, of Montpelier, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hattie Cutler Hall, Thursday, and was the oldest person in the city.

The Waits River Valley Grange, No. 320, was organized at West Topsham, Thursday night, by Hon. Charles J. Bell of Walden. There were 68 charter members. E. M. Hood was elected master and Grant Jackson, secretary.

Mrs. Harrison Abbott, of Randolph, an aged woman, who lived alone, was burned to death in her house at an early hour last week Tuesday. The fire was discovered about five o'clock by neighbors. The house was then so nearly consumed that it was impossible to reach the flames. The origin of the fire is unknown. Mrs. Abbott used an oil stove at times for heating purposes, and it is possible that the stove exploded.

A. J. McDonald, 55 years old, was drowned in the Castleton river near Castleton, Wednesday morning, and the body was found about 3 o'clock by a section foreman near the cemetery bridge, a quarter of a mile from the village. McDonald was last seen at six in the morning at home when he started with his dinner pail for work. It was either an accident or suicide. He was married and had several children as he separated from his wife three weeks ago.

Rev. Joseph A. Sherburne, a well known Methodist clergyman, died at his home in Barre, last week Monday, after a week's illness with pneumonia. He was born in Orange, November 22, 1821, and was a son of the late David Sherburne of that place. The near relatives living, besides a wife, are four sons, Rev. L. O. pastor of the Methodist society at Bellows Falls; Dr. H. K. of Rutland, Dr. F. W. of Boston, and Frank A., grocer; one daughter, Miss Ada J., who resided with her parents in Barre, also one brother, Newell, of Eagan, S. D. He has occupied many pulpits in the state, and retired from active work in the ministry 20 years ago.

C. J. Bell has just closed a two weeks' meeting at the State house of Agriculture in Rutland and Bennington counties and next week will begin a series of Grange meetings in Washington county, which will close the work of the board for the season. Mr. Bell says the board has already held 45 meetings, all successful, in different parts of the state and the interest in the Grange movement is constantly increasing.

Edward L. Hutchinson, of Felchville, who surrendered himself to United States District Attorney J. L. Martin early last month after opening a letter containing a check, was arraigned before Judge H. H. Wheeler in the United States court last week. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to eight months in the house of correction at Rutland. Hutchinson threw himself on the mercy of the court. He formerly lived in Halifax, and while there opened a letter addressed to George Prouty and containing a check for $25. He forged Mr. Prouty's name and secured the money at the People's National Bank in Brattleboro.

Some idea of the great depth of snow in the Green Mountains is had from the stories of the rough experiences of physicians and others in attempting to reach the sick in sections remote from the main thoroughfares. Mrs. James Atwood, living northeast of West Dover, towards Wardsboro three and one-fourth miles from the nearest neighbor, became ill several days ago, requiring the attention of a Wilmington doctor who was obliged to walk four miles through drifted roads, otherwise impassable. At the funeral of Mrs. Atwood eight men and several teams shoveled and plowed for hours only at last to be able to take a hand sled to convey the body to the cemetery, several miles distant, in West Dover village.

W. H. H. Murray, age 64 years, died last week at Guilford, Conn., where he lived in retirement. He once resided at Burlington and was a poor farmer's boy. He became a popular preacher, author and lecturer, and was familiarly known as "Adirondack" Murray. Murray worked his way through college starting in at Yale with $48 cash capital.

Spared the Historian. On one occasion during Mommsen's residence in Italy, when making an excursion in the neighborhood of Rome with some tourists, the party was stopped by brigands. The latter, while busy milking the company's pockets, inquired their names. "So, Theodor Mommsen," was the choleric professor's indignant reply, whereupon the chief of the band stayed his hand. He said he would scorn to rob one who had done so much for Italy's renown.

The Poison in Mackerel.

There is no more wholesome food among fish than a mackerel, yet close along the backbone of that same edible there lies a strip of flesh which may bring you to death's door even if it falls to kill you. You may eat it a hundred times and it will be as wholesome as the rest of the fish, but the hundred and first time or earlier it may cause terrible trouble. This is because it occasionally, without any sign or any known reason, distills a powerful irritant poison. There is no difference in the appearance of the fish or in its flavor; nothing to warn you of the danger. The only remedy is to leave the spine of the fish alone and not take the flesh that lies in the angle of the backbone's edges. There is never a year without a few deaths from this cause, though you might eat mackerel scores of times without taking harm. Yet animals have some way of detecting the poison, and a cat will not eat the flesh from the mackerel's spine if it is dangerous. It is not a question of staleness—a perfectly fresh fish may be deadly and a stale one harmless.—London Standard.

Lady Grey's Dull Evening.

Thomas Creevey, who lived in the early part of the nineteenth century, has presented some queer pictures of English court life. During the reign of King William IV. Creevey wrote: "The Greys had just come from Windsor castle. Lady Grey, in her own distressed manner, said she was really more dead than alive. She said all the boring she had ever endured before was literally nothing compared with her misery of the two preceding nights. She hoped she never should see a mahogany table again, she was so tired with the one that the queen and the king, the Duchess of Gloucester, Princess Augusta, Mme. Lieven and herself had sat around for hours, the queen knitting or netting a purse, the king sleeping and occasionally waking for the purpose of saying, 'Exactly so, m'am,' and then sleeping again. The queen was cold as ice to Lady Grey till the moment she came away, when she could afford to be a little civil at getting quit of her."

Curious Hunting Custom.

The Labrador Indians when on a hunt stalk on in advance of the train with their arms, while the women, heavily laden with provisions and means of shelter, drag along slowly after. When the lords and masters begin to think of food time or wish in any way to leave some guide as to their progress for the squaws they thrust an upright spear or stick in the snow and draw in the snow the exact line of the shadow then cast. The women, toiling painfully along, note the spear and the progress of the shadow and know closely the difference of time. They know, too, whether they dare to linger for a few minutes' rest or if they must hastily catch the stick or spear and hurry on.—Chicago News.

Long Journeys Made by Whales.

The whales that swim about the islands which lie off the coast of Norway and Finland in March and April travel immense distances. In May they turn up at the Azores or even at the Bermudas and sometimes pay a visit to the Antilles. They swim fast, for in June they are back again off Norway. Some of these whales have been known to bring back evidences of where they have been, for harpoons of the peculiar kind used off the coast of South America have been found stuck in them.—St. James Gazette.

Odd Japanese Customs.

The Japanese houses have no chimneys, and you are never warm enough until the house catches fire. The Japanese have beef and no mutton; the Chinese have mutton and no beef. Japanese bells, like Japanese belles, have no tongues; Japanese snakes have no poison; Japanese music has no harmony. The Japanese alphabet is no alphabet, but a selection of seventy useful ideograms to dispense with the 30,000 in ordinary use by the Chinese.—"Queer Things About Japan."

A Story of Brahms.

A rather celebrated composer asked to be allowed to play his very latest composition to Brahms, and did so with tremendous vigor, the perspiration streaming down his face as he pounded the piano. Brahms at the end of the performance picked up a sheet of the manuscript and, feeling it between his finger and thumb, enthusiastically exclaimed: "I say, where do you get your music paper? It's first rate."

Plants Without Roots.

The "flower of the air" is a curious plant found in China and Japan. It is so called because it appears to have no root and is never fixed to the earth. It twines round a dry tree or sterile rock. Each shoot produces two or three flowers like a lily—white, transparent and odoriferous. It is capable of being transported 600 or 700 miles, and it grows as it travels, suspended on a twig.

W. B. Eastman's Confidence in Hyomei.

Not a Penny Need Be Paid Unless It Cures You of Catarrh.

"Use Hyomei and be cured of catarrh," says W. B. Eastman. When a responsible business house like this comes out and advertises that Hyomei will not cost a penny unless it does all that is claimed for it, it shows what remarkable confidence they have in this scientific medical treatment.

A complete Hyomei outfit consists of a neat inhaler, that can be carried in the pocket or purse, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei, and costs but $1. The inhaler has a life and when extra bottles of Hyomei are needed, they can be obtained for 50c.

This treatment does away with all disagreeable and dangerous stomach dosing. Breathed through the Hyomei inhaler for a few minutes four times a day, it impregnates every particle of air taken into the air passages and lungs with germ-killing and health-giving balsams. In this way it cures the most chronic and deep-seated catarrhal diseases of the air passages and respiratory organs.

The user is the sole judge whether Hyomei is to be paid for or not. If it does not help, W. B. Eastman will cheerfully return the money and it will not cost a penny.

The Literal Truth.

GIRL AND WOMAN

CARE NEEDED AT THE CHANGE FROM ONE TO THE OTHER.

Many a Life Spent in Suffering Because Troubles Were Allowed to Develop At This Time.

Every mother of a growing girl should remember that there will come a time when her daughter will be a girl no longer but will share with her the blessings of womanhood. Unless nourishment keeps pace with growth the foundations of a life of suffering are laid at that time. Mrs. John MacKinney, of No. 478 Thirteenth street, Detroit, Mich., writes a timely word. She says: "I did not get proper care at the first critical time in my life and for seven dizzy spells, felt a constant fear that something dreadful was about to happen and was afraid to go out alone. My breathing was very short and I had palpitation of the heart so badly that I could not go up stairs nor walk even moderately fast. I was so nervous that I could not sit still. At different times for years I was under the care of the best physicians in Detroit and I tried a number of advertised medicines. Nothing helped me until, on the advice of a neighbor, I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I felt relieved before the first box was finished and I kept on taking them until I was cured. "Last winter my little girl had rheumatism and I gave her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and she got well right away. My niece was thought to be going into consumption and, upon my advice, she tried the pills. They cured her cough and she is now well and strong. My entire family are enthusiastic over Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and we can't say enough in their praise."

These pills effect such cures because they go to the root of the disease. Other remedies act on the symptoms—these marvelous vegetable pills remove the cause of the trouble. They have proved themselves to be an unfailing specific for all diseases arising from impure blood and weakened nerves—two fruitful causes of nearly all the ills to which humanity is heir. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold in boxes at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.
